JUSTIFICATION:

1. New Course: “PEP 3400 Sport Psychology for Coaches” (3 credits)
 - Sport coaches need to learn the mental skills and strategies necessary to help their athletes enhance performance, cope with the pressures of competition, maintain an exercise program, and enjoy participation in sports.
 - The textbook Sport Psychology for Coaches (Burton & Raedeke, 2008) will be adopted.
2. Modified Course (name change): PEP 2500 Skills, Drills, and Strategies for Coaches will become “PEP 2500 Sport Pedagogy.”
 - The course content will not change, only the course name. This change is recommended for the purpose of creating consistency in course content/titles with other university coaching education programs.
 - The textbook Skill Instruction for Sport Coaches (Wrisberg, 2009) will be adopted.
3. Modified Course (name/credit hour change): PEP 3550 Issues in Sport (2 credits) will become “PEP 2700 Sociohistorical Aspects of Sport” (3 credits)
 - Course content will be expanded to include an historical examination of how issues associated with race, class, gender, ethnicity, politics, and religion influence sport, both from the positions of participant and coach.
 - The textbook Sport in Society: Issues and Controversies, 10th Ed. (Coakley, 2009) will be adopted.
 - Propose also increasing course credit from 2 hours to 3 hours in order to fully cover intended material.
4. Credit Hour Change: These changes will increase the credit hour requirement for the “Sport Coaching Education” Minor from 15/16 to 19/20. Other affected programs include:
 - Physical Education Non-Teaching Major: Will increase credit hour requirements to 74
 - Physical Education/Sport Coaching Education Dual Minor: Will increase credit hour requirements to 44
 - BIS: This increase in program credit hours will not increase credit hour requirements for the BIS degree, but rather will eliminate the need for “PEP 4800 Individual Project” (3 credits)
5. Program Name Change: Program name will change to “Sport Coaching Education” Minor to reflect consistency within the academic field of coaching education.
